

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to an environmentally friendly water filter cartridge (10) for use in the water tank (1) of a household machine such as a beverage dispenser or the like that is easy to dispose of after use. To this end, the invention
5 provides that a discharge line (7) running outside the filter housing (12) is provided with the connecting elements for connecting to a suction line of the household machine.